

The Church is located just a few blocks from the Key Bridge, at the junction of North Nash Street and Fort Myer Drive in downtown Rosslyn – directly above the only gas station^[1] in Rosslyn. The doors are located on the uphill side of the church - on the skywalk between Fort Myer Drive and North Nash Street. The stairs from the street level to the skywalk are entered from North Nash Street.

From Rosslyn Metro Station: turn to the right after coming up the escalators from the train platform, following signs to “Skywalk” – go up escalator, make a U-turn to the left and go up the stairs. Go straight on the skywalk over Fort Myer Drive. You will see the Church building ahead of you to the right. The doors to the church are located on the skywalk between Fort Myer Drive and North Nash Street.

For those driving – get directions from the Google map link below. Free covered parking is available for Sunday worship and for church events in the evenings on Saturdays. The parking garage is entered on North Nash Street – the second garage entrance as you drive down the hill from Wilson Boulevard: see arrow on the map. (This is the middle garage level, and a walkway goes straight from this level of the garage over to the church’s doors on the skyway). IMPORTANT: Always leave a church bulletin in your windshield when parking in the garage for a church event. They are available in the church. Cars without bulletins may be towed by the garage operator.

^[1] This can be a hyperlink to the page that notes that the lease income from the gas station supports much of the cost of the church building allowing virtually all offering income to go to church programs and missions.